Self-knowledge grows as we objectively explore the nature of body, mind and feelings in a detached, non-judgemental manner. “Self-knowledge is an aim, but it is also a means. Self-knowledge is a means of deeper understanding and ultimately of self-realization.” To face ourselves scientifically we must accept the facts as they are without agree-

Art changes the totality of human experience as Dewey emphasized. Goodman and Heidegger propose that art reveals a special contribution to the world-making experience of the artist and the receivers of the artwork. Art is often representational. It may, as Bell and Fry affirmed, contain significant form giving rise to a special emotion, it may be expressive of human feelings, as Croce and ...

Implied in his statement is one simple fact: that self-knowledge requires an active effort. We must strive toward a comprehensive self-awareness without making the assumption it is a trait that we already embody. There are levels, degrees of self-consciousness, and it is a lifelong effort to penetrate the veils that hide us from ourselves.

wisdom/knowledge of one's own ignorance is the very self-knowledge enjoined by "know yourself", this is not a change of topic, and in the Charmides, Critias and Socrates agree that knowledge of knowledge (and presumably of ignorance) causes its possessor to have self-knowledge (169e). The idea seems to be that self-knowledge, understood as
