In theory, students could desire unequivocally accurate feedback, that is, objective input based on external standards. Such feedback, however, might entail taking on board uncomplimentary, negative, or hurtful in-formation about the self (Gregg, Sedikides, & Gebauer, 2011; Vangelisti & Hampel, 2012).

"Culture and personality" was a focus of anthropology and psychology in the first half of the 20th century. It was concerned with traditional and preliterate societies and drew many of its constructs from psychoanalysis. In this article, we note that taxonomies of personality traits and cultural values developed independently since 1980 have created new possibilities for exploring the topic.
